WELLNESS & HEALTH APPS

There is a large volume of wellness and health apps available. Whilst these may not provide high accuracy, they can help people engage and motivate them to improve health behaviors. It is important to be aware that the purpose of these apps are to promote awareness and encourage healthy behaviour, and not manage any specific health condition. If you have a specific health condition you should discuss this with your medical health professional.

The apps listed in this factsheet are not designed for medical health purposes, for information about those types of apps go to: www.tga.gov.au or to search the register for specific products: www.ebs.tga.gov.au.
